Sick Leave Policy - Norway

Policy HR-09-NO · Version 2026.1 · Effective 1 March 2026 · Owner: HR Norway · Rahmqvist Norge AS

TEST DOCUMENT
Fictional content created to test the Rahmqvist Assistant. It is not an actual Rahmqvist policy.

1. Purpose and scope

This policy explains what to do when you are ill, what you are paid and how we support your return to work. It applies to employees on a Norwegian employment contract. Employees in other countries follow the sick leave policy of their own country.

2. Reporting sickness

Tell your line manager before 09:00 on your first day of sickness, and register the absence in the HR portal the same day. Register again in the HR portal on the day you return to work.

3. Self-certification (egenmelding)

Rahmqvist Norge AS has an extended self-certification arrangement. You can self-certify for up to eight (8) calendar days at a time, and up to 24 days in total over any 12 months. You can use self-certification once you have worked for the company for two (2) months; before that, a sick note from a doctor (sykmelding) is needed from the first day.

4. Sick note (sykmelding)

For sickness lasting longer than eight days, or when your self-certification days are used up, you need a sick note from a doctor. Your doctor sends it electronically, so you only need to approve it.

5. Sick pay

- There is no waiting day: you receive full salary from the first day of sickness.
- Days 1-16: the company pays sick pay (the employer period, arbeidsgiverperioden).
- From day 17: NAV pays sickness benefit, up to 6G.
- The company tops up the difference so that you keep your full salary for up to 12 months.

6. Caring for a sick child (omsorgsdager)

You have ten (10) care days per calendar year for a sick child, or 15 if you have three or more children. Tell your manager before 09:00 and register the care day in the HR portal. Care days are paid as normal salary.

7. Health care

The occupational health service (bedriftshelsetjeneste) is free for all employees, and the company's health insurance gives access to a specialist within seven (7) days.

8. Follow-up during sick leave

Your manager will draw up a follow-up plan (oppfølgingsplan) with you within four (4) weeks of sick leave, and hold a dialogue meeting within seven (7) weeks, as Norwegian law requires.

9. Sick during your vacation

If you are ill during your vacation and have a sick note from a doctor, you can postpone the vacation days you lose. Apply to HR as soon as you are back.

Summary of the rules

Topic	Rule in Norway
Report sickness	To your manager before 09:00, and in the HR portal the same day
Self-certification	Up to 8 calendar days at a time, 24 days in 12 months; after 2 months' employment
Sick note	From day 9, or when self-certification is used up
Waiting day	None - full salary from day 1
Days 1-16	Paid by the company
From day 17	NAV pays up to 6G; company tops up to full salary for up to 12 months
Sick child	10 care days a year (15 with three or more children)

Frequently asked questions

Q: How many days can I self-certify?
A: Up to eight calendar days at a time, and 24 days in total over 12 months.

Q: Is there an unpaid waiting day in Norway?
A: No. You receive full salary from the first day of sickness.

Q: I started three weeks ago. Can I self-certify?
A: Not yet. Self-certification is available after two months' employment; until then you need a sick note.

Q: My child is ill. How many days can I stay home?
A: Ten care days per calendar year, or 15 if you have three or more children, paid as normal salary.

10. Questions

Questions about this policy go to HR Norway at hr.no@rahmqvist.example.