Code of Conduct: Gifts, Hospitality and Conflicts of Interest

Policy LEG-02 · Version 2026.1 · Effective 1 June 2026 · Owner: Legal & Compliance · Rahmqvist Group

TEST DOCUMENT
Fictional content created to test the Rahmqvist Assistant. It is not an actual Rahmqvist policy.

1. Purpose

Clients trust us because our decisions are fair and independent. This policy sets clear limits on gifts and hospitality and explains how to handle conflicts of interest, so that no one can question that trust. It applies to everyone working for the Rahmqvist Group.

2. Gifts you receive

- You may accept gifts worth up to EUR 50, in total per giver per calendar year.
- Register every gift worth more than EUR 25 in the gift register within five (5) working days.
- Never accept cash, vouchers or gift cards, whatever their value.
- While a tender or procurement is open, accept nothing at all from anyone taking part in it.
- Politely return a gift above the limit, or hand it to Compliance, who will donate it to charity.

3. Gifts you give

The same EUR 50 limit applies to gifts you give on the company's behalf. Public officials may receive branded items worth less than EUR 10 and nothing else.

4. Hospitality

Ordinary business meals are fine up to EUR 120 per person. When the host does not attend, an invitation counts as a gift and the gift limit applies. Travel or accommodation paid for by a supplier or client always needs Compliance's approval in advance.

5. Conflicts of interest

Declare in the HR portal, within 30 days of it arising, any situation where your private interests could affect your judgement, for example:

- a close personal relationship with someone at a supplier, a client or a competitor;
- a close relationship with a colleague in your reporting line;
- owning more than 1% of a supplier, client or competitor;
- a board seat or advisory role in another company.

Declaring a conflict is not wrongdoing; hiding one is. Your manager and Compliance will agree with you how to manage it, for example by having someone else take the decisions involved.

6. Side jobs

A second job or business needs your manager's written approval in advance. It must not compete with Rahmqvist, use company resources or information, or affect your working hours.

7. Bribery and corruption

We have zero tolerance for bribery in any form, including facilitation payments to speed up routine procedures. Report any request for such a payment to Compliance immediately.

8. Speaking up

If you suspect a breach of this policy or the law, raise it with your manager, Compliance, or through the whistleblowing channel at speakup.rahmqvist.example. The channel is run by an external partner and you can report anonymously. You will receive an acknowledgement within seven (7) days and feedback within three (3) months. Retaliation against anyone who speaks up in good faith is forbidden and is itself a breach of this policy.

Frequently asked questions

Q: A supplier sent me a bottle of wine worth about EUR 40 at Christmas. Can I keep it?
A: Yes, it is under EUR 50 - but register it in the gift register, because it is worth more than EUR 25. If that supplier is in an open tender, return it.

Q: A client offered me two concert tickets but will not be there. Can I accept?
A: Without the host it counts as a gift, so the EUR 50 limit applies. Tickets worth more must be declined.

Q: My partner works for one of our suppliers. Is that a problem?
A: Not in itself, but declare it in the HR portal within 30 days so that you are not the one deciding on that supplier.

Q: Can I drive for a ride-hailing service at weekends?
A: Possibly. A side job needs your manager's written approval in advance, and must not affect your work.

Q: How do I report something anonymously?
A: Use the whistleblowing channel at speakup.rahmqvist.example. It is run by an external partner.
